

Edmund / Edith Donalbain AKA “Tuesday”

Security Expert and Part-Time Bank Robber

You wanted to be a good person. You were honest, you performed your job without misconduct, and you cared very well for your mother, Gertrude. Your job as a vault security expert in this very bank helped you out when the economy went bad. But then the bank felt the crunch as well, and you were laid off about two months ago.

You still haven't told your mother yet. Since the death of your father, she has lived with you and she relies on you for monetary support. She would worry endlessly if she knew you were unemployed. And with her bad health, medical bills have been piling up. You've been looking for a new job, but the bills pile up faster than job prospects do.

Then you were contacted by Charlie / Cecilia Laughton. He/she was the Vice President of the bank at one time, but was convicted of embezzling. Charlie/Cecilia just got out of prison, and had decided to rob the bank. He/she knew you were on the security team that installed the security in the bank, and knew you needed some financial help. So you were the perfect person to hire to take out security cameras, avoid high tech robbery prevention systems, and get the vault open without any alarms. Your cut from this robbery should handle your mother's medical bills without problem, and help you last until you find a legitimate job.

The other robbers don't know who Charlie/Cecilia really is, nor do they know who you are. Charlie/Cecilia is just “Thursday” as long as you're around any other robbers. You're just “Tuesday” to them, and they're just “Sunday” and “Monday” to you. That way, no one can reveal their accomplices if the cops catch them.

Your job once you get inside is to get the bank vault open. You can bypass a lot of the security measures, but you don't have complete control. Banks hire multiple security experts to work on their systems, so no one can break the system altogether. Even though you can get the robbers into the vault, you'd need the manager's keys to get at any of the safety deposit boxes or large cash reserves locked inside the vault. Someone will have to get those keys off of Kirkwood, though you'll be busy enough with the security system already. Keep an eye out for anyone trying to trigger the silent alarm – stopping that should happen first, if at all possible.

Personalize your character:

Edmund / Edith is not a professional criminal and is getting very nervous about this bank robbery plan. So Edmund / Edith has developed a nervous tick that happens whenever something unexpected or violent or stressful happens. What is it?