

"French Margaret" Montour

Background

Keys and Secrets

You are a 25 year old year old half-Iroquois half-French Canadian translator and guide. All your life, you have had to deal with being a half-breed, part of two worlds yet not quite belonging in either.

Last year you aided George Washington on his diplomatic trip, and were greatly impressed by his courage and skill. You swore an oath to help Washington on the frontier however you could. Now that oath might bring you into conflict with your Iroquois family, and it certainly will bring conflict with your French family.

Can you reconcile your twin identities? Do you want to?
